

Assistant Professors of History
TWO TENURE-TRACK POSITIONS
European History (pre-1848); World History

The Department of Social Sciences at Michigan Technological University seeks two tenure-track faculty members in History:

- World History – specialization in a non-Western area (other than Europe and North America) and capable of teaching a survey course in World History.
- European History – specialization in European History before 1848 and capable of teaching survey courses in European history

The Department of Social Sciences offers undergraduate programs in anthropology, history, and social science. The department is also home to two M.S. programs (Industrial Archaeology and Environmental Policy) and two Ph.D. programs (Industrial Heritage & Archaeology and Environmental & Energy Policy). The successful applicant will teach undergraduate courses in his or her field and contribute to graduate teaching and research. Preferred areas of expertise for both positions include the early Industrial Revolution, history of technology, environmental history, social history of industry, or material-culture studies. The normal teaching load is two courses each semester. This is a tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, beginning August 2012; Ph.D. expected at time of appointment.

Michigan Tech, a research university with 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students, values cross-disciplinary research. Located on Lake Superior in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, its community offers year-round recreational and cultural opportunities and a low cost of living that result in an excellent quality of life.

Applicants should send: 1) a letter of interest and/or other materials describing their teaching experience and research plans pertinent to contributing to an interdisciplinary social sciences department; 2) a vitae; and 3) contact information for three references. Review of the applications will begin on November 28, 2011. Please send materials to: Fredric L. Quivik, Chair of History Search, Department of Social Sciences, Michigan Technological University, 1400 Townsend Drive, Houghton, MI 49931-1295. Electronic transmission of application materials to flquivik@mtu.edu is encouraged.
